Come Enjoy the Indoor Fireworks at MAM this Fourth of July
July 4, 2008 10AM-5PM

Kids are Free!

WHAT: Disappearances, Shadows and Illusions

WHERE: Miami Art Museum, 101 West Flagler, Miami

WHEN: Friday July 4, 2008, 10am-5pm

BACKGROUND:

As one of the few Miami institutions open to the public on July 4, MAM promises an experience that will be both cool and illuminating for the entire family. Bask in the orange glow of the setting sun, explore the labyrinthine meanders of a glowing ladder or walk through airborne bursts of laser light -- all in the air-conditioned comfort of the Miami Art Museum this July 4. Mark Handforth's Western Sun, Wendy Wischer's Ariadne's Thread and Matt Schreiber's Guilloche, One Arm, all works by Miami artists, are only some of the literal highlights in MAM's presentation of Disappearances, Shadows and Illusions. Once you've had some fun with Leyden Rodriguez Casanova's A Seemingly Open Door, Tom Scicluna's Shift or Kerry Phillips' You could always see real far off even when you weren't trying, you and your family can also enjoy the exhibition's visitor's gallery, replete with hands on activities for all ages.

Admission: Free for MAM Members; $8 for Adults, $4 for Seniors; Students with valid ID and children under 12 are free
